

The Human Toll of Raúl Castro's Rule: Partial Record of Deaths and Disappearances Attributed to the Cuban State July 31, 2006 – December 31, 2015

Since Fidel Castro took power on January 1st 1959, his brother Raúl was considered Cuba's second-in-command. On July 31, 2006, Fidel suddenly fell ill and Raúl, then First Vice President of the Council of State and Minister of Defense, was designated President in an intended temporary transfer of power. Fidel did not return to power and, on February 24, 2008, Raúl was officially "elected" President by the National Assembly. on April 19, 2011, he was designated First Secretary of the Communist Party at the VIth Party Congress, effectively completing the succession. Although Raúl is as responsible as his brother, Fidel, for the oppression of the Cuban people and systematic human rights' violations since January 1st, 1959, it is useful to illustrate the continuing and grave abuses committed since he assumed the leading role.

Following is a partial list of victims, as documented by Cuba Archive, since Raúl Castro assumed supreme command in Cuba. These numbers are only for cases properly documented and do not represent the actual number of deaths. Many more deaths were reported at sea in exit attempts or of migrants murdered while attempting to cross by land into the U.S., yet there is insufficient data to document these cases. Death reports from prison are very limited, as international monitoring is not allowed and reporting from inside the prisons leads to reprisals, but it is known that many deaths occur in prison from abuses, medical negligence and protest hunger strikes and suicides. (Deaths of non-political prisoners are part of this project given the criminalization in Cuba of many activities that contravene universally-accepted human rights' standards and the absence of due process of law.)
